Leadership Strategies for Educators: Embracing Change Starts at the Top

8:45 a.m. | Cottonwood Ballroom

Garrison Wynn will focus on the difference between managing people and leading them to be responsible, empowered and confident contributors. People need to know their contribution to an institution's success. It is the baseline of effective leadership and the key to productivity to inspire commitment to the mission and let staff know they are essential to the entire school's success.

How can you instill a climate of ownership so that everyone feels accountable and responsible for success? How can you motivate your team to focus on the goal rather than themselves? How can you help create an organization where change and innovation are embraced with courage and respected as a tool to beat the competition?

Great leadership requires developing a shared vision that everyone can get behind. The result is a more productive and efficient workplace with superior morale that can rapidly overcome challenges in a competitive environment.

Wynn brings a research-driven, results-oriented approach to leadership strategies for change management.

The ABCs of EEPs (Effective Educational Practices): Results from Kansas

During the ESEA Flexibility Waiver, KSDE provided technical assistance for the lower-performing Title I Schools using the Turnaround Principles. Also during that time, higher-performing Reward schools were given recognition. Using the positive model of Appreciative Inquiry, participating Reward schools revealed effective educational practices that continue to support student success. The results of this 2018 Kansas Dissertation study will explore what we are doing right and the practices we should consider to make our schools stronger.

Google Classroom is free for schools and teachers and students can work anywhere, anytime, on any device.

Investing in School Safety

Over the last four decades Goddard USD 265 has invested significantly in providing a safe learning environment for all students. These services have ranged from the development of the USD 265 School District Police Department in 1998, as a result of the only school shooting fatality in Kansas, to the passing of a bond election with over 70 percent voter approval in 2017 that will ensure adequate access to tornado safety areas and enhanced security features in all schools. Please join the USD 265 Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Henry, and staff as they provide examples and tell their story about the importance of investing in student safety in Goddard Public Schools.

Setting Up for New Teacher Success

Setting up a classroom for optimal learning begins with the essential element of classroom organization. Preparing a classroom for maximum efficiency is dependent on how the class is structured and how the students are taught to move within that structure. Classroom management must be as intentionally planned as classroom instruction. The tools that can make a new teacher as effective as an experienced one can and should be learned before the first day of school ever approaches. Together, let's explore a plan for success that can ease a new teacher's fears about what to expect on the first day, week, month... and set them up for years of effective teaching.

Investigating Alternative Fuels and Storage for our School Community (2018 STEM Grant Winner)

This project gives middle school students an opportunity to engage in some action research based on their study of alternative fuels and make an impact on their local community. As the Derby Middle School Recycling Club and Pre-Engineering classes investigate alternative fuel sources, they are implementing an action research project to examine the benefits of electric or compressed natural gas (CNG) buses as a bridge fuel source to a better solution. Currently, Derby utilize over forty diesel buses to cover the 53 square miles of district routes each school day. This study includes a review of the potential cost savings to the district as well as the reduction in harmful emissions. It will also examine what other government entities have experienced. Derby will share our research with district personnel with the intention that an appropriate plan can be implemented that brings savings to the district.

Strategically Leading Change

Why do people and communities resist change? Change is not an event or a thing, instead it is about influencing people. To influence people you must challenge beliefs, modify behaviors and create the right culture. Participants will have the opportunity to discuss the science behind leading change. They will also focus on how to create the right culture for leading change, through the use of key opinion leaders, and strategic communication.

Influence in Action! What The Most Influential Leaders Do Differently

How do you get people to do what you want them to do? And how can you get better results from the challenging people you encounter along the way? With an emphasis on what you can actually walk out of the session with and achieve tomorrow, this program shows you how to weather the perfect storm while still looking really good in a raincoat!

Bullying, Sexual Harassment and Other People Behaving Badly

With continuous media and societal discussion of bullying, harassment, and discrimination, it is hard to know what behaviors fall into which category. This session provides an overview of the laws and policies related to bullying, harassment, and discrimination, as well as the legal responsibilities of the district in handling complaints and the legal liability involved with different interactions between employees, students and patrons.

Myths and Facts about Referendums

Why do some districts pass bond and levies while others do not? A campaign is demanding and complicated and often information gets twisted, leaving patrons confused. These myths are communication strategies that seek to either amplify something about the proposal that isn't important to voters (even if it is to the school district) or diminish the impact of something major. We'll use a point-counterpoint style of discussing each myth to provide a winning formula.

Inspirational Keynote Wolves Can't Fly

8:00 a.m. | Cottonwood Ballroom

Dan Meers/KC Wolf

Dan Meers is a man whose energy, humor and excitement not only entertains but also encourages others to strive for the best of life. Dan has served as KC Wolf, the official mascot of the Kansas City Chiefs for over 25 years.

On November 23, 2013, Dan Meers came within inches of losing his life while practicing a bungee jump and zip line stunt at Arrowhead Stadium... home of the Kansas City Chiefs. What Dan anticipated being the thrill of a lifetime ended up being the spill of a lifetime. The stunt went terribly wrong and Dan plummeted 75 feet before crashing into the stadium seats.

Miraculously Dan survived. He spent nine days in the hospital and got some really big scars. Dan smiles when he says, "Scars are just Tattoos that come with a Cool Story."

Dan is the author of the book "Wolves Can't Fly" and during his powerful presentation Dan shares his incredible story and the important lessons that he has learned about leadership and about life. *Find Dan in the Cottonwood Ballroom Foyer to purchase your autographed book for $12.00. The Legal Authority of Kansas School Boards: Board Meetings, Resolutions, Member Liability, Immunity, and Election Qualifications

While school board members do not receive a salary, there is some risk of legal liability associated with serving on an elected board when Kansas laws are not followed. This presentation will discuss school board meetings and the board's decision-making authority including what actions require official votes and resolutions. Kansas laws addressing board member's legal immunity will be reviewed along with board member scenarios that generate the greatest risk of board and individual liability. Recent school board election changes will be reviewed along with how to handle board member vacancies.

Kansas Association of School Boards*

Location: Courtyard 3 (Overland Park Convention Center, Lower Level)

Developing the Board Team

School boards and leadership regularly make critical decisions that will affect student performance in their districts for many years. These decisions are the most important work of the board. Does your district understand "What Matters Most?" Research proves there are specific items within effective education systems that drive student success. Board members and superintendents will explore the systems within their districts and analyze whether they are doing "What Matters Most."

Negotiation Opportunities and Roadblocks: Board Proposals for Student Achievement

Work on Professional Negotiations should begin before the notice letter deadline, and now is the perfect time to start. Boards should begin identifying issues for next year's agreement early and refine their lists to bargain for the best interests of the district and its students. This breakout session reviews the deadlines and bargaining process, with suggestions about planning for and conducting successful negotiations. Satisfies the statutory annual training requirement for board negotiators.

Westar Energy, KSDE and KASB are proud to recognize the 2018 STEM Curriculum Innovation Grants Recipients

Westar Energy, in partnership with the Kansas Association of School Boards (KASB) and Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE), sponsor the Westar Energy STEM Innovation Award. The 2018 awards are the fifth annual grants given by Westar Energy. These awards support K-12 educators and school leaders in their efforts to develop, improve or expand innovative project-based instruction in science, technology, engineering and math (STEM).

Watt's Up, Baldwin City? Baldwin Elementary School Intermedia Center, Baldwin City USD 348, Dr. Jana Hare, Director of Curriculum, Instruction and Assessment

Fourth grade students will participate in a year-long citizen science project by designing energy consumption research projects using Wattmeter Kits purchased through the grant. The student will become the research experts in the areas of energy consumption, learn to analyze the data and apply their findings to a community-based approach to energy conservation.

Data collected from household appliances and other devices in use at home, school and in the community will be used to develop an educational program on resource management to share with the community through the public library, city commission and chamber of commerce.

A key part of the project will be to collaborate with others in the community to gather data. A limited number of Wattmeter devices will be available for checkout from the local library as part of the data collection process.

Students will use math, science and language arts skills to create and share regular reports and materials on the school's website, on social media pages and with the public. Students will also explore careers in science, technology, engineering and math through subscription-based resources and a field trip to the Baldwin City Power Plant.

Investigating Alternative Fuels and Storage for Our School Community Derby Middle School, Derby USD 260 School, David Brown, Project Lead the Way teacher, and Melanie Wood, language arts and math teacher

Sixth grade students will design projects to investigate various forms of energy, determine the potential for alternative fuels use by the school district and project potential costs savings and reductions in harmful emissions.

One part of the project will focus exploring electric or compressed natural gas as the fuel source for the district's bus fleet. They will partner with district staff to develop a feasibility study, conduct research and experiments and then share an action plan with the district. Their recommendation would be to invest any cost savings into future green energy projects at the district's 12 schools.

Solar power will be used to run a water electrolyzer to collect hydrogen and oxygen gases into storage tanks to power a PEM fuel cell. Using kits purchased through the grant they will build a self-contained solar hydrogen system that can be used to power a model car.

Students will develop a plan to meet the Green Schools criteria set by both the Kansas and U.S. departments of education and gain a greater understanding of careers in the field of energy production and environmental protection.

'Lego' Make Energy Oregon Trail Middle School, Olathe USD 233, Jessica Sadler, sixth grade science teacher

Female students in grades 6 through 8 will use the Lego brand "Education Simple and Powered Machines Kits" to work with energy supply transfer, accumulation, conversion and consumption. The girls will build hand cranks that create joules to drive the Lego jeeps they build, solar panels to measure voltage and amps created by the sun, wind turbines and solar powered cars.

The grant resources will also be used with ELL (English Language Learner) students to learn about both energy production and careers available in science, technology, engineering and math.

Students will invent their own simple motorized machines to demonstrate the use of kinetic energy and other forms of energy production. Using pneumatics kits funded by the grant students will design and produce their models, documenting the entire process, then create bilingual video presentations to share on the school's website and in social media.

The project will include a STEM Challenge to focus on renewable energy and pneumatics, with the pictures of winners posted in the STEM Hall of Fame and winning designs on display in the school's library. Part of the project includes collaboration with another district school to practice how to design as a diverse team and co-create presentations.
