How to Write a Conclusion!

Step One: Re-state your thesis.
Ex. – The Medici were able to influence the city of Florence by ______, ______, and ______.

Step Two (the hardest part!): Make a connection between the passage and the text.
Ex. – The author of “The Medici Family’s Influences” makes it very clear that the Medicis were able to shape and change Florence.

Step Three: Tie it back to your hook!
Ex. – During this time, you would not have had to imagine a world where ________; you would have lived it!

How to Write a Conclusion!

Step One: Re-state your thesis.
Ex. – The Medici were able to influence the city of Florence by ______, ______, and ______.

Step Two (the hardest part!): Make a connection between the passage and the text.
Ex. – The author of “The Medici Family’s Influences” makes it very clear that the Medicis were able to shape and change Florence.

Step Three: Tie it back to your hook!
Ex. – During this time, you would not have had to imagine a world where ________; you would have lived it!

How to Write a Conclusion!

Step One: Re-state your thesis.
Ex. – The Medici were able to influence the city of Florence by ______, ______, and ______.

Step Two (the hardest part!): Make a connection between the passage and the text.
Ex. – The author of “The Medici Family’s Influences” makes it very clear that the Medicis were able to shape and change Florence.

Step Three: Tie it back to your hook!
Ex. – During this time, you would not have had to imagine a world where ________; you would have lived it!

How to Write a Conclusion!

Step One: Re-state your thesis.
Ex. – The Medici were able to influence the city of Florence by ______, ______, and ______.

Step Two (the hardest part!): Make a connection between the passage and the text.
Ex. – The author of “The Medici Family’s Influences” makes it very clear that the Medicis were able to shape and change Florence.

Step Three: Tie it back to your hook!
Ex. – During this time, you would not have had to imagine a world where ________; you would have lived it!