2017-2018 North Carolina Community College Lecture Series

Presented jointly by the NC Community College System and the UNC Cancer Network

You are invited to participate in the 2017-2018 NC Community College Lecture Series. This series is presented jointly by the UNC Cancer Network and the North Carolina Community College System. Information presented during these lectures is geared toward students that are enrolled in health sciences programs and is meant to provide introductory oncology-related information.

All programs are delivered in a live, online, and interactive format using GoToWebinar. Time is set aside in each lecture for participants to engage with the presenter in an interactive Q&A session. All programs are FREE, but registration is required.

2017-2017 Lecture Series Schedule

End-of-Life Care Options for Patients with Cancer

Monday, November 27, 2017
1:00 - 2:00 PM
Presenter: Christine Kistler, MD, MASc

Caring for the Patient with Cervical Cancer

Monday, February 26, 2018
1:00 - 2:00 PM
Presenter: Lyn Filip, RN, BSN, OCN

Caring for the Patient with Leukemia, Lymphoma, or Multiple Myeloma

Monday, March 26, 2018
1:00 - 2:00 PM
Presenter: Thomas C. Shea, MD

For complete information visit: www.unccn.org/communitycollegelectures

Have questions?
Contact the UNC Cancer Network at unccn@unc.edu or 919-445-1000.

The UNC Cancer Network coordinates the programs of UNC Lineberger Comprehensive Cancer Center located across the state of North Carolina. UNC researchers and clinicians are partnering with community physicians and clinics across North Carolina to move research into practice and provide citizens with the best cancer services available.

The University Cancer Research Fund is a nation-leading investment to stimulate cancer research and reduce North Carolina’s leading cause of death. The funds, which support the work of UNCCN, builds research based at UNC Lineberger, the only public National Cancer Institute-designated cancer center in North Carolina.