LIBRARY DIRECTOR
TECHNICAL SERVICES LIBRARIAN
ROXY KNOLLS

Roxy Knolls has served as the Library Director of the Rose County Community College Library for the last two years, providing administrative leadership for the library. Prior to becoming Director, Roxy worked in the library as the Access Services Librarian for thirteen years. Although as Director Roxy now has little interaction with the library's day to day systems and processes, she is willing to jump in whenever an issue in the library arises.

In her personal time, Roxy enjoys watching the Fast & the Furious movies, sharing her innovative Crock-Pot recipes on the podcast she hosts with her cousin Phyllis, and spending time with her two cats, Bouncy and Poppet.
BLANCHE GARFIELD

Blanche Garfield has worked as the Rose County Community College Library’s Technical Services Librarian for just over a year, having replaced Greta “The Tank” Petrillo who retired from the library after 35 years of service. Upon assuming her new position, Blanche discovered that her predecessor did not leave any documentation behind detailing Technical Services (TS) procedures in the library. While a skilled cataloger, Blanche has never overseen a TS department or managed other employees. She has spent a great deal of time developing effective workflows and honing her management skills. Blanche is a quiet individual and tries to avoid conflict in the workplace as much as possible. She reports to Roxy Knolls, Library Director.

Outside of work, Blanche is an avid runner and cello player.
LIBRARY TECHNICIAN
STACKS MANAGER
BENJAMIN THEODOSIUS FARNSWORTH III

Benjamin Theodosius Farnsworth III has served as the Library Technician at the Rose County Community College Library for three years. Benjamin recently graduated from college where he majored in mathematics and minored in computer science. While his immediate supervisor is Blanche Garfield, the Technical Services Librarian, Benjamin divides his time between technical services and access services. Benjamin is helpful, but he is known to procrastinate on projects.

In his spare time, Benjamin dabbles in graphic design and maintains a popular RPG blog. He aspires to a career in web development.
RUGBY STEWART

Rugby Stewart has served as the Rose County Community College Library’s Stacks Manager for six years and he enjoys every aspect of his work. In his position, Rugby monitors the library’s collections with meticulous care. When it comes to the physical nature of the library’s storage areas, Rugby conducts thorough checks on a regular basis. Although Rugby would prefer to operate alone in his work, the library’s student workers and Library Technician, Benjmain Theodosius Farnsworth III, assist him with his work.

Rugby is just returning to work after taking a few days off to attend the funeral of his grandfather.

In his spare time, Rugby enjoys knitting and crossword puzzles.
REFERENCE LIBRARIAN
Marion Ravenwood is the Rose County Community College Library’s Access Services Librarian. She has a MLIS and Bachelor’s in Archaeology. Marion has been working at the library for 10 years. She started working as a Reference Librarian, but changed jobs two years ago when the previous Access Services Librarian, Roxy Knolls, was promoted to Library Director. Marion is responsible for both patron services and management of the library’s many outreach services.

Marion and her husband Henry, a professor at Rose County Community College, enjoy traveling. Lately Marion has been interested in ecotourism and has recently traveled with a local environmental group to India. When she is not traveling, Marion likes to read detective fiction, explore vegan cooking, and spend time with her two rescue greyhounds, Indy and Hans. She loves to share photos of her life on her Instagram account.
EMMETT BROWN

Emmett Brown is the Reference Librarian at the Rose County Community College Library. He is the longest serving employee (25 years +) and provides institutional memory. Emmett loves his job and takes his role as the reference librarian very seriously.

Emmett enjoys tinkering in his workshop. He likes to fix and rehab small appliances, woodwork, and restore vintage cars. He also enjoys playing the guitar and is in a local rock band with his high school friends, Marty and Biff. The band plays in clubs around town. He collects comic books and is involved in the active superhero fandom online. He lives with his two cats, Copernicus and Einstein.
STUDENT
DANA BARRETT

Dana Barrett is new to librarianship, having just recently graduated from library school. The Rose County Community College Library is her first professional position. As the Engagement Librarian, Dana spends her days working with the students and members of the local community to provide them with a stellar library experience. Her innovative and creative programs, such as game show-themed library instruction and stress reducing finals events with local animal shelter pets, have made the library a go-to place for students.

In her free time, Dana likes to express her crafty side with her Etsy store where she sells her handmade soaps made using herbs and flowers from her garden. She is very active in the community, volunteering at the local animal shelter, teaching community craft classes and hanging out at Gozer’s, the local coffee shop owned and operated by her boyfriend, Peter Venkman.
Gem Jones is a first-semester LIS student with a BA in history, trying to get library work experience while earning money during graduate school. Gem helps maintain the library’s reading rooms and book stacks. She also assists with the circulation. Gem is able to answer basic informational, directional and library policy questions, help patrons locate materials in the stacks, and provide basic copy machine assistance. Her supervisor is Marion Ravenwood, Access Services Librarian.

In her personal time, Gem enjoys skiing, painting with watercolors, and watching reruns of Magnum, P.I. and Growing Pains.
BUILDING ENGINEER
Glenn Walters has his Bachelor’s in biology with a specialization in phytopathology and mycology. Glenn has served as the Rose County Community College Library’s System Administrator for the last five years. He maintains, upgrades and manages the library’s software, hardware, and networks. Glenn is resourceful and patient. Glenn works closely with the library’s Technical Services Librarian, Blanche Garfield, and he reports to the Library Director, Roxy Knolls.

On the weekends, Glenn likes to hike and pick mushrooms. For the third year in a row, Glenn has won Rose County’s annual chanterelle soup contest. He revels in his title and proudly displays his mushroom shaped trophies in his office.
Dan Willow has worked for Rose County Community College for 22 years. He is familiar with the details of every building on campus. Dan knows that the library building, even with its renovations, experiences unexpected mini leaks here and there.

Dan is an expert with HVAC, plumbing, and electrical. He takes care of any maintenance problems in the library’s building. He ensures that the school meets all safety requirements (e.g., fire extinguishers, etc). He is on call for unplanned after-hour facility emergencies and snow days.

Dan enjoys his work immensely, but his true love in life is trains, both creating model sets and traveling to ride historic engines.
