Agile, Mushrooms and Tibet
1996 - 2008:
Developer, Customer Support, Project Manager, Product Manager,
System Architect, Scrum Master, Product Owner
2009 - 2010: Full-time Coach and Trainer, Core Network Product
2011 - 2012: Head Coach, North East Asia
2017 - Present: Founder, Principal Coach and Trainer
AGENDA

• Trip to Tibet
• Agile Transformation
  • Learning
• Agile Mushrooms
• Takeaway
Some basic information about altitude sickness
Preparations and purposes
Purpose of the journey?
Transformation Vision and Strategy
“Everybody is different because every body is different”

Every organization is different too!
Workaround => Comfort?
Where are you now?
Hitting the Ceiling?
Story about Swedish Mushrooms
• How many types of Agile mushrooms are there in your company?

• Your skills in recognizing mushrooms?

• How do you plan to cultivate good mushrooms?

• How do you plan to grow more good mushrooms?
Be inspired but do not mimic
Build

Learn

Measure
MVP?
Build

Build

Build
VALUE FLOW
• Agile is not your goal

• Don’t forget strategy and preparation for the transformation journey

• Don’t be complacent - you can achieve so much more!
• Reduce organization complexity to grow into an Agile organization
  • Do Proper Scrum
  • Be cautious about scaling frameworks
• Avoid organization agility ceiling
  • Improve leadership agility
  • Grow internal coaching capability
• Be inspired by good practices but don’t mimic
Contact me:
Evelyn Tian

Thank-you!